

The Book of Psalms: An Overview

by Felix Just, S.J., Ph.D.

The Book of Psalms in the Hebrew Bible is actually a collection of five different "books" containing a total of 150 Psalms of several different literary genres. The following tables give an overview of several features of each of the Psalms, along with some summary statistics:

- Books I-V: The common division into five separate "books" of Psalms is based on the concluding doxologies and/or "Amen"s found in 41:14; 72:18-20; 89:53; 106:48; and the entirety of Ps 150 (see below).
 - Note that Book IV is found below Book III in the following chart, since both of these are much shorter than the other three books.
- Ps# - The Psalms are numbered from 1 to 150 in the Hebrew Bible; however, Psalms 9 & 10 really form one longer Psalm, just as Psalms 42 & 43 belong together.
 - An asterisk (*) before the Psalm number marks the eight "Acrostic" Psalms (9/10, 25, 34, 37, 111, 112, 119, 145), those in which the first letter of each verse (or group of verses) follows the alphabetical order of the Hebrew alphabet (which is also the main reason we know Ps 9 & 10 belong together).
- #Vv. - The second column lists the number of verses in each Psalm, according to the versification of the New American Bible translation.
 - For many of the Psalms, the number of verses is slightly different (often one or two less) in the King James Version, Revised Standard Version, and other modern English translations, due to differences between the ancient Hebrew, the Greek Septuagint, and/or the Latin Vulgate versions of the Bible.
- Type - In the Hebrew text itself, many of the Psalms have a superscription that identifies what type of composition it is: Psalm, Prayer, Song, Praise Hymn, etc.
 - Biblical scholars are uncertain and debate what the "Maskil" and "Miktam" and "Shiggaion" are; there is greater agreement and clarity about those labeled "Song of Ascents" and "Halleluia" (Praise God).
- Attrib. - Many psalms are also explicitly attributed to a particular biblical figure, very often (King) David, but sometimes also the Korahites, Asaph, or other individuals.
 - An ampersand (&) in this column indicates those psalms in which the superscription gives further information about the text's historical context (e.g. Ps 102: "The prayer of one afflicted and wasting away whose anguish is poured out before the Lord"), and/or instructions (often explicitly addressed "To the Leader") about what type of musical instruments or tune to use (e.g., Ps 4: "With stringed instruments"; or Ps 46: "According to alamoth [a tune]").
- Category - Modern Scholars classify the Psalms into several different literary categories, including Hymns, Laments, Songs of Thanksgiving, etc., some of which are individual (I/me/my), while others are communal (we/us/our).
- See the second table below for a complete listing of the different types, attributions, and categories of psalms, and the number of occurrences of each.

Abbreviations and Summary:

Here is a complete listing of the types and attributions mentioned in the superscripts of the Hebrew Bible, as well as the categories used by some modern scholars, along with the total number of each that occurs among the 150 Psalms. Please note the following:

- There is some duplication, since some superscriptions mention both "psalm" and "song"; some songs are explicitly called "love song" or "sabbath song"; etc.
- The exact meaning of maskil, miktam, and shiggaion is unknown and/or debated among scholars.
- Some superscriptions mention the type but omit an attribution (e.g., Ps 92: "A Psalm. A sabbath song"), and vice-versa (e.g., Pss 25-28 simply say "Of David" without any identification as a "Psalm" or "Prayer," etc.).

Conclusions of the Five "Books" within the Book of Psalms:

- Ps 41:14 – Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, from all eternity and forever. Amen. Amen.
- Ps 72:18-20 – Blessed be the LORD God, the God of Israel, who alone does wonderful deeds.
19 Blessed be his glorious name forever; may he fill all the earth with his glory. Amen and amen.
20 The end of the psalms of David, son of Jesse.
- Ps 89:53 – Blessed be the LORD forever! Amen and amen!
- Ps 106:48 – Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, from everlasting to everlasting!
Let all the people say, Amen! Hallelujah!
- Ps 150:1-6 – “Hallelujah! Praise God in his holy sanctuary; give praise in the mighty dome of heaven.
2 Give praise for his mighty deeds, praise him for his great majesty.
3 Give praise with blasts upon the horn, praise him with harp and lyre.
4 Give praise with tambourines and dance, praise him with strings and pipes.
5 Give praise with crashing cymbals, praise him with sounding cymbals.
6 Let everything that has breath give praise to the LORD! Hallelujah!

Collections within the Book of Psalms:

- An old collection of Psalms attributed to David (Ps 3–41)
- An second collection of the Psalms of David (Ps 51–72)
- A collection of Psalms attributed to the Korah musical guild (Ps 42–49; also 84–85 & 87–88)
- A collection of Psalms attributed to the Asaph musical guild (Ps 50 & 73–83)
- A collection Psalms of YHWH's kingship (Ps 93–99)
- A collection of Psalms of Pilgrimage; a.k.a. Psalms of "Ascent" to Jerusalem (Ps 120–134)
- Psalms 1–2 function as an Introduction to the whole book
- Psalms 146–150 function as a Conclusion to the whole book.

Miscellaneous Tidbits:

- Shortest: Psalm 117 (only 2 verses!)
- Longest: Psalm 119 (has 22 sections of 8 verses each, totalling 176 verses!)
- Most Similar: Psalms 14 and 53 are almost identical; Psalms 40:13-17 and 70:2-6 are also almost identical.
- More Duplications: Psalms 108:2-6 is identical to 57:8-12; while Psalm 108:7-14 is identical to 60:7-14.
- Oldest: Psalm 29 (probably adapted from a Canaanite hymn to the storm-god Baal)
- Extra: Psalm 151 (found in the OT Apocrypha)
